

Last but not least is the latest one-off limited edition cyclocross bike. This year, Fornes said they were out of ideas so they turned the creative over to TwinSix. TwinSix said they wanted belt drive. Here's what came of it:

The annual limited editions started with the Ranier model in 2008. We think this one's a subtle but worthy addition to the line.

The frameset is $1,500 and includes the Easton EC90 carbon cyclocross fork. Frame is Atomic 13 SL Butted Aluminum with a standard BB and...

...new sliding dropouts that allow the driveside to open up for belt drive insertion. The 'cross bikes are being released first, with the Talus available by early 2012.
